Thirty-second Sunday in Ordinary Time
November 12, 2017

"My soul is thirsting for you, O Lord my God."

In the holy scriptures that we hear proclaimed today, wisdom is presented as a central value. We hear an ode to wisdom in the first reading, and the parable of the wise and foolish virgins in the Gospel. The wisdom that we need will enable us to be ready for the coming of the Lord. Listening to these readings, what do you think you need to do to prepare for the Lord's coming today?

Pastoral Reflection

Be open to God's call

The parable of the ten bridesmaids used to strike me as unreasonably harsh. Why, I wondered, were the "wise" ones so unhelpful to the "foolish"? Could they not have shared their oil? Further reflection, however, brings to light some other aspects of the story. In some respects the ten are all the same. All of them fall asleep. Later on, all are called to accompany the bridegroom into the wedding banquet. What distinguishes five of them as wise, however, is that they have come prepared. When the call is heard, therefore, they are the ones who are ready and able to respond. The others are foolish because, though they hear the same call, they are not in a state of readiness to answer that summons.

Note the words "wise", "ready", and "awake." We hear in them echoes of the first reading's description of wisdom: she is given to those "who love her," "who seek her," who "keeps vigil." In our efforts to be faithful disciples we need to be open to God's call, even—or especially—in places of darkness and unexpectedness. God understands our weaknesses and our failings. The disposition of our hearts is what makes all the difference.

It is by the path of love, which is charity, that God draws near to us, and us to God. But where charity is not found, God cannot dwell. If, then, we possess charity, we possess God, for "God is Charity" (1 John 4:8).
